Eligible medical expense

Medical expenses that can be reimbursed through your FSA include services and supplies incurred by you or your eligible dependents for the diagnosis, treatment or prevention of disease or for the amounts you pay for transportation to get medical care.

In general, deductions allowed for medical expenses on your federal income tax according to Internal Revenue Code Section 213 (d) may be reimbursed through your FSA. You cannot deduct medical expenses on your federal income tax that have been reimbursed through your FSA. It is possible that changes in the IRS rules can affect the eligible, potentially eligible, and/or ineligible expense categories.

Potentially eligible medical expenses

In order to determine eligibility for potentially eligible items, SelectAccount requires a Letter of Medical Necessity from your health care provider. You can obtain a Letter of Medical Necessity to have your health care provider complete at www.selectaccount.com.

Capital expense

A capital expense is an improvement and/or special equipment added to a home or other capital expenditure that may be eligible if the primary purpose is medical care. A Letter of Medical Necessity is required from your health care provider. To submit your capital expense, you must have an appraisal of your home within one year prior to the installation and an appraisal after the installation to determine the value added to the home. The amount eligible is the difference between the cost of the expense and the increase in the additional value of your home. If the improvement/special equipment is used by individuals other than the person needing it for medical care, the eligible amount should be divided by the number of people using the item. Example: A ramp is purchased for $3,000 and prior to installation your house is appraised at $100,000. After installation of the ramp your house is appraised for $101,000. The amount that is eligible under your FSA is $2,000.

For assistance in calculating capital expense, the Capital Expense Worksheet is available at www.selectaccount.com. If you have questions about a capital expense, please contact customer service for a more detailed explanation.
